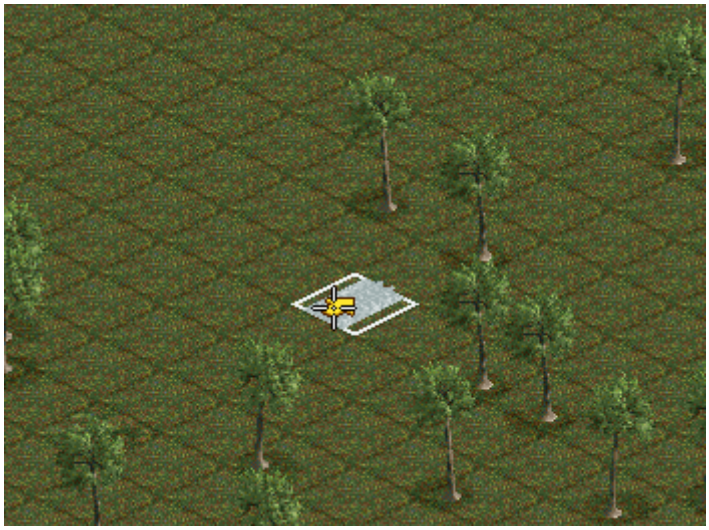
BUILD YOUR FIRST RAIL

This is the first tutorial, here you learn the very basics in railbuilding: namely, "how to build you first railway".

To begin laying track you first have to open the railbuilding menu. To do that click on the button, in the topbar, with a piece of rail on it (see below).

Once you've clicked on that button you'll see the railbuiding menu (see below). Now just click somewhere on the ground and you can start building.



Of course you can also change the track direction first. You can do this by click on the arrow (see below). Or when you're finished you can click on the crosshair (see below) and start building at another place. To demolish a piece of track, click on the bulldozer (see below).

Now you know how to lay tracks. Of course without a station the track is useless. To learn how to build a station you will have to download the next tutorial, or you can also read this tutorial again.
